

MINOR IN CULTURE, RACE & RESISTANCE

The Minor is based on a diverse range of courses exploring forms of cultural resistance related to race, ethnicity, gender, nationalism, globalization, social justice and activism. Students study literature from transnational, translocal, and interdisciplinary perspectives, while investigating postcolonial, anti-colonial, black and Indigenous approaches and texts.

Prerequisite: Three (3) credit hours in ENGL at the 1000 level

Strongly recommended courses: ENGL 3302 Literary Theory I and/or ENGL 3303 Literary Theory II

The following courses count toward the fulfillment of the Minor credit requirements in the 2026-2027 academic year:

- ENGL 1284.1 Literature and Resistance
- ENGL 1290.1 Literature and Violence
- ENGL 2461.1/2 Mi'kmaq Storytelling and Literature
- ENGL 2323.2 Queer Lives and Letters
- ENGL 3343.2 Cultural Studies
- ENGL 3361.1 World Literature in English
- ENGL 3791.1 Literature of the Black Atlantic
- ENGL 4826.1 Gender and Irish Drama

For more information, contact:

Dr. Tatjana Takševa, Chairperson, Department of English Language and Literature (English@smu.ca)

For Major/Minor declaration form, visit:

<https://www.smu.ca/academics/student-forms.html#majordec>

